Section 1 Scope

1. These online shop General Terms and Conditions ("GTC") for SCHIESSER GmbH, Schützenstrasse 18, 78315 Radolfzell, Germany, ("SCHIESSER" or "we/us") apply exclusively to consumers within the meaning of Section 13 of the German Civil Code (BGB), i.e. regarding any natural person ("customer" or "you/your") who concludes a legal transaction for purposes that are for the most part neither commercial nor for their independent professional activity. These GTC apply to all contracts concluded between SCHIESSER and the customer via the SCHIESSER online shop with the purpose of delivering goods; the version valid at the time the order is placed is to be considered applicable. Any terms and conditions and/or stipulations laid down by the customer that either differ from or clash with these Terms and Conditions, regardless of their denomination, are explicitly excluded unless SCHIESSER explicitly agrees to their applicability in writing.

2. The goods listed in the online shop are exclusively available to customers residing in Switzerland or Liechtenstein who can provide a delivery address in one of these countries.

3. The purchase contract is only considered to have been concluded once our goods have been shipped and you have received a corresponding confirmation by email. With this confirmation or in a separate email, but no later than upon delivery of the goods, the written contract (consisting of the order, Terms and Conditions, cancellation policy and confirmation) will be sent to you in a durable medium (email or paper printout). If, while processing your order, we discover that the products you ordered are not available, we will inform you of this separately by email.

2. In the second step, you can decide whether you want to create a customer account or continue with your order without a customer account.
3. In the third step, you enter your personal information including the billing address and, if necessary, a different delivery address. At this time, if you are registering for an account or placing a guest order, you will have to accept our General Terms and Conditions and data protection regulations by ticking the box; the above can be accessed via the corresponding link.
4. The fourth step involves selecting one of the payment methods offered.
5. In the last step, you have the option of reviewing all information (e.g. name, address, payment method, items ordered) again and correct them if necessary. Prior to submitting your order, you will be expressly advised of the validity of these General Terms and Conditions, our data protection regulations and cancellation policy, all of which you can access via the corresponding link. You will also be expressly advised that by placing your order you agree to the validity of the aforementioned Terms and Conditions. Section 9 Retention of Title

The delivered goods remain the property of SCHIESSER until they have been paid for in full.

Section 10 Warranty

1. The warranty for defective purchased goods is based on the statutory provisions. In particular, the customer is entitled to request subsequent performance (replacement item or removal of defects/repair). SCHIESSER is entitled, however, to provide the customer with a new item if rectification of the defect would result in unreasonable effort. In particular, the value of the item in intact condition, the severity of the defect and the question of whether a replacement item could be accepted without significant disadvantage for the customer must be taken into account.
2. The warranty is considered void if you alter the products in such a way that causes a defect.
3. You can submit your warranty claims, stating your order number, name, address and a brief explanation by email to kundenservice@schieesser.com. The defective goods are to be returned to us for inspection by means of retrieval, which shall be arranged via pick@home. By fulfilling the above requirements, you will make the inspection easier for us and speed up the process. A limitation of the warranty rights does not go hand in hand with possible non-fulfillment. Statutory provisions apply in this respect.

§ 11 Offsetting, retention

You have the right to offsetting only if your counterclaims have been legally established or are undisputed by us. You are only authorized to exercise the right of retention if your counterclaim is based on the same contractual relationship.

Section 12 Data Protection

The protection of your personal data collected in our online shop in the course of our business relationship is very important to us. We will only process your data in accordance with our data protection regulations. You can view and print out our Privacy Policy here.

Section 13 Copyright and Trademark Law

1. The entire contents of the website, in particular texts, graphics, photos, illustrations and software, are the property of SCHIESSER. This content is protected by copyright law and other commercial property rights. Duplication, editing, saving or any other processing of this data is not permitted.
2. All trademarks used on the website are the property of SCHIESSER, unless stated otherwise. Any application or use of these trademarks in any shape or form without our consent is prohibited.

Section 14 Liability

1. We are not liable (subject to the following exceptions) in particular for customer claims for damages or reimbursement of expenses - irrespective of the legal grounds - in the event of a breach of duties arising from a vicarious agent or statutory obligation.
2. The above exclusion of liability pursuant to Section 14 subsection 1 shall not apply:
 - for its sole intentional or grossly negligent breach of duty and intentional or grossly negligent breach of duty by legal representatives or vicarious agents;
 - for the breach of essential contractual obligations. "Essential contractual obligations" are those whose fulfillment characterizes the contract and on which the customer may rely;
 - in the event of bodily injury, loss of life or damage to health, also by legal representatives or vicarious agents;
 - insofar as we have assumed a guarantee for the quality of our goods or the existence of a performance outcome or a procurement risk within the sense of Section 276 of the German Civil Code (BGB);
 - in the event of liability under the Product Liability Act or other legally mandatory liability circumstances.
3. In the event that we or our subcontractors are only guilty of slight negligence and there is no case of the above Section 14 subsection 2, 3rd, 4th and 5th paragraph, we shall only be liable for the foreseeable damage typical for this type of contract, even in the event of a breach of material contractual obligations.
4. The exclusions or limitations of liability pursuant to the above Section 14 subsections 1 - 3 shall apply to the same extent in favor of our corporate bodies, our executive and non-executive employees and other vicarious agents as well as our subcontractors.
5. A reversal of the burden of proof is not implied by the above provisions.

Section 15 Final Provisions

All contracts between you and SCHIESSER are governed by the laws of the Federal Republic of Germany excluding the UN Sales Convention. Statutory provisions restricting the choice of law and the applicability of mandatory (consumer protection) regulations, in particular those of the state in which the customer, as consumer, has his or her main residence, remain unaffected.

The EU Commission provides a platform for out-of-court settlement of disputes. This gives consumers the option of initially settling disputes related to their online order out of court. The dispute resolution platform can be found at: <https://ec.europa.eu/consumers/odr/>. Otherwise, SCHIESSER does not take part in dispute settlement proceedings before a consumer arbitration board (Section 36 VSBG).
